Letter from Pat

Dear Friends,

Thank you for your patience and understanding this past year as the Society office worked through an unexpected manufacturing problem with the 2013 porcelain brooch. Unable to find a manufacturer that could provide a good quality proof, a decision was made at the end of last summer to obtain the equipment and training to make the brooches in-house at P. Buckley Moss Galleries, Ltd., in Mathews, Virginia. The first brooches were shipped around mid-November; and, by the time you receive this issue of the Sentinel, the staff will be caught up on the 2013 brooches and well along in the process of making the 2014 brooches.

Last year was an exciting one for me. Elsewhere in this issue, you will find articles about my being appointed a Fellow at Virginia Tech and the University's new Arts Center being named after me. These are great honors for me, but they are also honors for you, who helped make it possible. I am looking forward to my work with Tech's outreach programs and purchased a lake house near my daughter Mary in Radford, Virginia, so that I won't have too long of a commute.

Love,

New for 2014

Following the wildly enthusiastic response to our inaugural bead last year, we are pleased to announce a new bead for 2014 members who join or renew at the Premier or Choice membership levels. The bead for 2014 features a pair of Pat's trademark black cats, cast in sterling silver and enameled in black. The reverse of the bead again features Pat's "Moss" signature logo, this time emerging from a black enameled background, complementing the enamel work on the front of the bead. The bead is made in the United States by the same master jeweler who made our first bead; and, like last year's, it is designed to fit the bracelets of popular bead manufacturers like Pandora. It may also be worn on a necklace. (continued)

Enlarged to show detail, actual size
1/2 (w) x 3/8 (h) x 1/4 (d) ins.

Starter bracelet includes 2 black and white glass beads and two stopper beads. The Purrfect Pair bead comes separately with your membership.

The Purrfect Pair bead is available to members who join or renew at the Premier and Choice membership levels introduced last year. The costs and benefits for each level of membership are listed below. Each year, as an active member you are able to select your level of membership based on whether you wish to have the bead, the pin, or a combination of both. You are not restricted to the level chosen in the preceding year. You may also upgrade last years' membership levels if you did not get the 2013 geese bead, but would like it now. The upgrade costs $62.

Purrfect Pair is also available as a 14K gold bead with or without enameling.

Premier	Sterling Silver Bead and Porcelain Brooch	$100	Senior Premier	$95
Premier Gold	14K Gold Bead and Porcelain Brooch	$500
Choice	Sterling Silver Bead	$85	Senior Choice	$80
Classic	Porcelain Brooch	$38	Senior Classic	$33
Junior	Porcelain Brooch	$28

2014 Brooch

This year's brooch for adult members is adapted from the print On a Summer Day. As we did last year, we are making this brooch in-house and, at time of press, have begun production on it. You will be pleased to know that we are ahead of schedule this year because we have complete control over the manufacture and distribution of the brooches. The 2014 brooch for junior members is adapted from Pat's painting On Top of the World.

2014 Adult Members-Only Print

This year we mark a return to one of Pat's classic subjects, a new family standing in front of their home. As we have come to know of Pat's art, this piece is made up of elements that are real and imagined, combined in such a way as to suggest something more meaningful than straightforward reality. The "real" in this case, is Pat's depiction of her childhood home at 3843 Amboy Road on Staten Island. Pat has transposed it from its urban setting to rural farmland and populated it with her familiar Plain People. They are emerging from their home, halfway down the brick pathway, she proudly carrying her newborn infant (Are they posing for us, as in a family portrait?) and he carrying a basket of apples, standing behind her with a loving and protective arm over her shoulder. By their gracefully attenuated form and their upward-aspiring bearing, these are no ordinary people—they rather reach the level of symbols of something greater than their individual selves. Individually, she represents nature and nurture, fertility and child-rearing. Together, the couple represents such concepts as love, labor (the man gathering apples), and respect for the land. They stand solidly at the mid-point on the pathway of life, looking ahead at their future as a family. They are firmly rooted to the ground, yet aspiring, in the way Pat paints them tall and lean, to the heavens. These are Pat's symbols of a spiritual life well-lived on earth and painted in vintage Pat Moss style. On another level, Memories of Home refers us to Pat's personal place in her painting, her own memories of her childhood home. As an artist, she has given birth to this nascent family, born in the creative well of her imagination (her home) and sent them out into the world for us all to enjoy. The painting is thus both an illustration of the artistic process and the result of the artistic imagination. Memories of Home deserves to take a central place in any collection of Pat's work.

Announcing the 2014 Society Trip

We are pleased to announce the 2014 Society Trip: "San Francisco and Wine Country Delights", from Friday, August 29, through Friday, September 5. The trip will begin in San Francisco, where guests will spend three nights at the beautiful Hyatt Regency at Fisherman's Wharf and enjoy a welcome reception. Our time in San Francisco will include tours of Fisherman's Wharf, Chinatown, a local cookie factory, Farmers' Market, Haight-Ashbury, and Muir Woods and will include the sampling of many local delicacies.

On Day 4 (Monday) we will travel by motor coach to Sonoma, where we will spend four nights at the lovely Fairmont Sonoma Mission Inn. In Sonoma, we will visit historic Sonoma Plaza and the Mission San Francisco de Solario (the last California mission built), an olive press, and Ravenswood Winery, where we will create our own personal blend of fine wine. We will go by motor coach to Napa, where we will enjoy the Oxbow Market, V. Sattui Winery in St. Helena, the historic Town of St. Helena itself, the Castello di Amoroso Castle and Winery in Calistoga, lunch in a cask room, and Flora Springs Winery. We will prepare and eat a four course dinner with wine and champagne. Prior to returning to San Francisco (airport or hotel) on Day 8, we will visit the Domaine Carneros Winery, noted for its sparkling wines. In total, we will visit seven different wineries and enjoy some free time on our own to explore San Francisco, Napa, and Sonoma.

At this time, the cost of the trip is estimated to be $2,450 per person, based on double occupancy. If the trip is paid in full by April 29, a discount of 5% will be applied. This price does not include airfare to and from San Francisco but does include airport and hotel transfers, taxes, gratuities, all wine tastings and local food samplings, seven full breakfasts, one picnic lunch, four full dinners, and a cooking class.

Complete details will follow. Please consider joining your fellow Society members and friends as we journey to one of the most interesting and beautiful parts of our country. For further information, questions, or to indicate potential interest, please contact Bonnie-Lou Binnig at 727-786-1960 or blbinnig@yahoo.com. ## Artist P. Buckley Moss Named Virginia Tech Fellow

The New York Native was Appointed to the University's Center for Organizational and Technological Advancement

September 12, 2013, By Eric Gillard,
Printed with Permission from The Daily Press

Renowned Mathews artist P. Buckley Moss has been named a fellow at Virginia Tech, according to a statement from the university.

Moss will serve in the university's outreach programs and the university's Center for Organizational and Technological Advancement.

"I am excited about this opportunity and look forward to many years of being part of the university community," Moss said. "Virginia Tech has done so much for so many people, and I'm happy to be part of an effort to promote the arts, which are so important both in the field of education and as a means of life enrichment."

"We are delighted to welcome P. Buckley Moss as a fellow and look forward to working with her as we expand access to outreach programs and experiences in the arts that inspire creativity, curiosity, and critical thinking," said Susan Short, the university's associate vice president for engagement.

A graduate of New York's Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art, Moss has won numerous awards and was the subject of a PBS documentary, "Split the Wind." Moss' work is represented in more than 200 galleries worldwide.

Moss also founded the P. Buckley Moss Foundation for Children's Education in 1995, which is devoted to promoting the use of art in the classroom, especially as a means to teach children with learning differences. The foundation hosts an annual teacher's conference to share the latest methods of art-based education.

"Having such a prominent artist working with us on new educational and economic-development initiatives will add to our momentum, benefiting both the university and the region," said Guru Ghosh, Tech's vice president for outreach and international affairs.

P. Buckley Moss Recognized for Philanthropy to Virginia Tech

BLACKSBURG, Va., Oct. 23, 2013 -

Virginia Tech has named its $100 million arts center building in tribute to artist and philanthropist Patricia Buckley Moss, whose recent donation in support of the center is one of the largest gifts the university ever has received.

"The Moss Arts Center is a spectacular testament to how important the arts are to any university that values comprehensive excellence," Virginia Tech President Charles W. Steger said Oct. 23, nine days before the center was to host its first performance.

Speaking in the center's third-floor lobby, Steger said the university Board of Visitors' recent decision to name the center in Moss' honor was particularly fitting, due not only to her generosity toward the project, but to her prominence in the arts and her longtime advocacy for incorporating the arts into education.

Moss, who signs her paintings P. Buckley Moss, has works represented in more than 200 galleries, has won numerous awards, and is the namesake of a foundation that works with teachers to promote using the arts in teaching.

In her advocacy work, Moss, who is dyslexic, has cited her personal story of struggling in school until an open-minded teacher recognized her artistic potential. Moss wound up enrolling in a high school for the fine arts and, later, in New York's Cooper Union for the Advancement of Science and Art.

"The arts can change people's hearts, change their minds, and change their lives," Moss said. "I was lucky enough to find them at a young age, and they opened up so many learning avenues and professional opportunities for me. That is why I am so excited about the impact this wonderful facility will make on thousands of people, young and old, across this entire region of our state.”

[Moss’ donation] and others have been critical to funding the project, Elizabeth “Betsy” Flanagan, the university’s vice president for development and university relations, explained.

“The power of philanthropy has literally reshaped the university’s landscape, evident in this building and all across the campus,” Flanagan said, adding that the private fundraising goal of $28 million for the arts center project had been exceeded.

Designed by the award-winning architectural firm

Snøhetta, the 147,000-square-foot center is located near the corner of the Alumni Mall and North Main Street.

On Nov. 1, Philip Glass and his ensemble will give the first performance in the Anne and Ellen Fife Theatre, located within the Moss Arts Center building’s Street and Davis Performance Hall. Along with that performance space, the center contains visual arts galleries, an experimental venue known as the Cube, and extensive studio space for educational and research activities.

“The scope and scale of the work we now can bring to campus is unprecedented in this region,” said Ruth Waalkes, the university’s associate provost for the arts, who is also executive director of the Center for the Arts at Virginia Tech, which is responsible for programming and operations within the new facilities.

Waalkes also said the center will bring “new opportunities for learning, discovery, and engagement for our students” and will make “world-class arts experiences accessible and affordable for people across the region.”

Increasing the prominence of the arts at Virginia Tech was a goal Steger—who has announced he will step down once a new university president can be hired – outlined in his 2000 inaugural address.

At the naming announcement, he described the Moss Arts Center as symbolic of a much broader effort that has included the addition of the Institute for Creativity, Arts, and Technology; construction of Theatre 101; the addition of several graduate degree programs in the arts; renovation or construction of learning spaces for arts programs; and the hiring of additional faculty.

“This magnificent building shows the value we place on the arts at Virginia Tech, and is part of a series of major investments we have made in the arts,” Steger said.

Launched in 2005 as an arts initiative, Virginia Tech Arts encompasses all efforts within departments and colleges and at the university level to expand creative practice and support interdisciplinary learning, engagement, and discovery through the arts. The cornerstone project of Virginia Tech Arts is the Moss Arts Center, which houses the Center for the Arts at Virginia Tech professional presenting program; the university-level Institute for Creativity, Arts, and Technology; and television and lab spaces for the Department of Communication.

The Street and Davis Performance Hall within the Moss Arts Center is named in honor of Jack and Sandra Davis and Faye and Nick Street for their philanthropic support of the Center’s construction.*

Scholarship Deadlines

The P. Buckley Moss Foundation for Children's Education administers three scholarships that were initiated by the Society, and all applications must be submitted to the Foundation office at 152 P. Buckley Moss Drive, Waynesboro,

VA 22980. Criteria and application forms are available on both the Society's website (www.mosssociety.org) and the Foundation's (www.mossfoundation.org), but any questions should be referred to the Foundation office at 540-932-1728.

Completed applications for the P. Buckley Moss Endowed Scholarship, the Anne and Matt Harbison Scholarship, and the Judith Cary Leadership Memorial Scholarship must be postmarked no later than March 31, 2014.

Foundation Awards 2013 Teacher Grants

(Grant monies to be used for the 2014 school year)

The P. Buckley Moss Foundation for Children's Education is pleased to announce the recipients for the 2013 Moss Foundation Grants. The grant monies will be used for the 2014 school year. These five grants will further programs to provide educational opportunities through the arts to children who learn differently. The total amount of these awards is $3,413.39, plus an additional $530 grant given by the Central Iowa Chapter.

Teacher: Rebecca Kaufman
PS37R School, Staten Island, NY
Collage Art—Learning Vocabulary Words through Art to Apply to Other Academics: $997.29

This project will allow autistic students, many of whom are non-verbal, to learn art vocabulary words they can also apply to other areas of academics. The students find art motivating, and any opportunity to increase language skill while having fun with art is a plus.

Teacher: Sharon Link
Westfall Middle School, Williamsport, OH
Card Making for Multi-Disabilities: $810.00

Using various art supplies, the multi-disabilities classes make cards and send to local hospitals, nursing homes, and other students and their families needing encouragement or get well wishes. The students will be studying patterns in math, making collages in art, and designing animals and objects with various shapes, which incorporate math, science, social studies, and art.

Teacher: Shevaun Sirmans
Duryea Elementary, Katy, TX
Using Zentangle to Improve Academically: $663.50

Zentangle is a fundamental technique that can be applied to most aspects of an art program. Using Zentangle for the creative process allows the students to "think," "observe," "plan," "produce," "revise," and "present." Zentangle Art and the use of doodling engages multiple learning modes which impact how we process information and solve problems. Doodling includes visual, audio, reading & writing, and kinesthetic or emotional connections which result in creative problem solving.

Teachers: Patricia Rundell & Sarah Scheer
Bloom Elementary, Louisville, KY
Artists & Writers Workshops: $673.60

Through this art and writing program, teachers will implement an artists'/writers' workshop on a daily basis, creating artwork to act as a springboard for written pieces. Students will create a portfolio of art and writing. The program is aimed to encourage reluctant writers and students with learning differences to create powerful and well-developed written pieces. The results will be shared with authentic audiences and displayed in the school building.

Teacher: Sheena Varghese
Harper-Archer Middle School, Atlanta, GA
Peer Advocate Program: $269.00

The purpose of the Peer Advocate Program is to make a lasting emblem of the inclusive spirit that the Program fosters at the school, encouraging relations between students who are served in the self-contained setting and their peers who are served in the general education setting by creating a mural illustrating for all students and faculty the value that lies in including all students.

Teacher: Paul Rogalla
Indianola Middle School, Indianola, IA
Life Science Curriculum—Drawing Connections: $530.00

(One-time-only special grant for an Iowa school from the Central Iowa Chapter of the P. Buckley Moss Society)

The use of drawings in life science helps special education students better understand the subjects. The physical drawings they make in class help the students gain understanding of difficult concepts in science by drawing atoms, cell functions, steps of mitosis, and botany subjects.

Chapters Continue Charity Efforts, Activities

DAUGHTER OF THE STARS Chapter (Strasburg, VA) raises money through an annual auction among its membership and a 50/50 drawing at each meeting. The Chapter also raised money in 2012 by raffling a Moss print obtained through the Society's Charity Print Program, which was reported in the September, 2012, issue of the Sentinel. The Chapter made donations to the following: $50 to the Christmas Party for Special Kids, $50 to the Empty Stocking Project, $50 to the Compassion Cupboard Food Pantry, $50 to the Pregnancy

Center, $50 to the Free Clinic, $50 to Response (assistance for families with domestic problems), and $50 to an FFA student to participate in a summer outreach program in the Dominican Republic in which her group went to a school to assist with various projects and deliver school supplies. In June, 2012, the Chapter awarded three scholarships to special education graduates at Strasburg High School, one for $500 and two for $250, each.

MOSS AT MONTICELLO Chapter (Charlottesville, VA) members in 2012 collected items for the military and helped pack boxes for shipping. Members also collected donations for a school in Haiti, the local food pantry, and the Salvation Army.

MOSS AT THE LAKE Chapter (Moneta, VA) gave $500 for the Trish Walker Memorial Scholarship, which was awarded to a 2012 graduate of Franklin County High School.

MOSS HEAVEN Chapter (Fairfield, IA) members donated $50 to the Fairfield Lord's Cupboard, $50 to the Ottumwa Lord's Cupboard, $100 to the Men's & Homeless Center, and $50 to the Women's Crisis Center. The Chapter also provided a $600 scholarship to Samuel DeWeese of Oskaloosa, IA, to attend Indian Hills Community College in Ottumwa. In addition, chapter members volunteered to help with the P. Buckley Moss Collectors' Convention in Riverside, IA. Chapter member Bill Abigt, owner of M&J Art & Frame Gallery in Ottumwa, gave presentations on preserving and framing art.

MOSS IN THE FOREST Chapter (Forest, VA) collected hats, scarves, blankets, gloves, and food items such as coffee, tea, creamer, etc., and donated them to the Salvation Army in Lynchburg, VA. Members also created artificial flower arrangements in teacups and mugs, each with an inspirational verse, and delivered them to the oncology unit at Lynchburg General Hospital for distribution to cancer patients. Chapter members also collected supplies and filled 36 boxes for the Operation Christmas Child Shoe Box Project through Samaritan's Purse.

MOSS IN THE MOUNTAINS Chapter (Princeton, WV) obtained a remarqued A Family of Joy Moss print from the Society's Charity Print Program and conducted a raffle to benefit art in the schools. Framing was donated by Frameworks Plus of Bluefield, WV. The Chapter presented Princeton High School with a check for $600.

MOSS IN THE VALLEY Chapter (Roanoke, VA) conducted a raffle in 2013 to benefit West End Center for Youth, which raised $2,700. The first prize was a remarqued Mountain Homestead Moss print, which was donated by the Society's Charity Print Program and framed by Graphics, Etc. The winner of the print was Gail Correll. The second prize was a quilt titled Not Just Another Feathered Star that was designed and donated by Don Bunce. The winner was Paul Langston.

Chapter members also prepared thirty bags of adult personal items, ten filled book bags for children, and two boxes of personal items for the Salvation Army Turning Point Shelter valued at approximately $1,950. In addition, the Chapter gave $260 to the Ronald McDonald House, $50 to the American Cancer Society, $25 to the American Red Cross, and $25 to the P. Buckley Moss Endowed Scholarship fund.

PAT'S CATS Chapter (Martinsville, VA) members in 2012 donated food for the Grace Network Food Bank and donated a gift bag to raise funds for the P. Buckley Moss Foundation for Children's Education during the Moss Collectors' Convention that was held in Riverside, IA. Additionally, the Chapter assisted the Bassett, Virginia, Historical Center in obtaining a Buffalo Mountain Heritage Moss print from the Society's Charity Print Program for their silent auction. The print raised $180, and Fran Snead was the lucky winner.

TREES OF LIFE Chapter (Defiance, OH) held its third "Defiance has Talent and Heart" fundraiser done in American Idol style on September 29, 2013. The event raised a stunning $18,800 to benefit Madison Joy Pflug, who turned ten years old on the same day. Madison has suffered from cancer since she was age two. There were fifteen entries (singers, dancers, and the hit of the show, "Elvis"), and the crowd of 500 people "voted" by placing donations in a bucket for their favorite entertainer. The show was hosted by the town's favorite radio celebrity and also included an extensive hors d'oeuvres buffet. The successful evening ended with all the singers joining in for an emotional rendition of How Great Thou Art.

In addition to the donations collected, funds were raised through a silent auction, a live auction of a beautiful St. Francis sketch by P. Buckley Moss, a 50/50 drawing, and an October raffle calendar that included 23 prizes. The top prize was a Moss giclée print Passing By, which was framed by The Corner Gallery of Archbold, OH, and won by Ron and Dottie Kingen of Racine, WI.

Maddie holds up Pat's sketch of St. Francis as MC Rick Small leads the auction at her benefit and 10th birthday party.

Total raised for charity in these chapter reports is over $27,290. Outstanding!
